

COMMUNICATION (BA)

Bachelor of Arts

This major is offered in the traditional and AU Online format.

The abilities to communicate effectively in speaking and writing are among the top skills employers seek when hiring college graduates. The communication major is designed to prepare students for careers in a wide variety of professional fields in the private, government, and non-profit sectors. Communication graduates work in areas of leadership, human resources, public relations, education, media, journalism, and politics, among many others. Students will identify and develop their passions and strengths as they participate in engaging courses and complete challenging projects.

The program focuses on the core competencies of professional speaking and writing, media literacy, and research. The communication major is also an excellent double major option, as these skills are relevant in any professional workplace. Examples include double majors with political science and public policy (for careers in law and politics), marketing (for careers in public relations, advertising, and event planning), graphic design (for careers in video/audio, gaming, user experience, and broadcast), and English (for careers in technical and professional writing, journalism, speech writing, and many more). Communication is a highly versatile degree that is anchored in the timeless skills of speaking and writing.

Students will be offered three specializations to further develop their skills in marketable career paths: Multimedia Production, Public Relations and Event Planning, or Journalism and Professional Writing. Students will graduate from the program having completed a required internship and a clear path to a successful career or graduate school.
